GERMANY'S ACTION IN SUBSEA WAR VICTORY FOR WILSON.

erty at sea immune from attack by naval forces.

Kaiser's Quick Change Surprise to Capital.

The torpedoing of the Arabic, which cost the lives of two American citizens, brought President Wilson face to face with the question of backing up his bold words, with the country was not prepared to perform.

Then, to the astonishment even of administration officials, Germany disavowed the act of its submarine commander in the case of the Arabic and embarked upon a policy of conciliation of the United States, culminating in the acceptance of the American demands in the submarine controversy of Ambassador von Bernstorff at Washington today.

MORE MOVES TO WIN AID. Incidentally, it may be said that the ambassador's announcement of the acquiescence of Germany in President Wilson's contentions for the observance of international law, which THE TRIBUNE was privileged to report exclusively this morning, is only a beginning in the campaign launched by Berlin to win the favor of the American people.

The desire of Germany to possess the friendship of the United States will be manifested in many ways in the near future, according to close associates of the German ambassador, who frankly point out that the action of Berlin has removed a serious handicap at a critical moment from the efforts of the envoy.

EFFECT ON BALKAN NATIONS.

The disclosure that the kaiser and his ambassador were discussing peace possibilities by wireless two days before the decision of the Arabic is regarded as significant by the colony of foreign officials here.

The belief is growing that Germany suddenly abandoned its uncompromising attitude toward Washington and adopted a program of conciliation, not because the kaiser feared a nation totally unprepared for war but because conciliation would further his efforts to achieve these two great ends:

Prevention of the Balkan states from entering the struggle on the side of the allies.

Termination of the war with Germany at the high tide of its victories.

MASTER POLITICS BY KAISER. It is admitted by official representatives of the allies that the kaiser has been playing masterly politics in the last fortnight, and that his action averting trouble with the United States undoubtedly has had its effect in the Balkans.

It is pointed out that had there been a rupture of relations between Berlin and Washington, the block would have gone on, and one or more of the Balkan states probably would have been encouraged to take the plunge into the conflict in aid of the allies.

EXPECT GERMANY TO GAIN. German officials are jubilant over the outcome of the submarine controversy, for they believe that the foreign policy of the United States henceforth will be directed to the advantage of the Teutons, to the disadvantage of the entente allies.

In the first place, the action of the kaiser in yielding to the United States puts it squarely up to President Wilson to adopt forceful measures to compel Great Britain to cease its violations of international law in the maintenance of the starvation blockade.

The president committed himself to a forceful policy in regard to England in his last note to Berlin. He decided, however, to withhold his note to London pending a settlement of the controversy with Germany. Now the kaiser has removed this bar to aggressive action by his ultimatum against Great Britain. If President Wilson carries out his pledge of vigorous action to compel England to abide by international law and succeeds in winning modifications of the blockade, Germany will be the gainer.

GIBBONS ASKS INTERVIEW.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—A request made at the White House today for an interview with Cardinal Gibbons for an interview with President Wilson was granted as significant in official and diplomatic circles in view of recent reports of the pope's hope to bring about peace in Europe through cooperation with the heads of neutral governments. The interview was arranged for tomorrow evening.

At the White House the object of Cardinal Gibbons' request for an interview was not disclosed, although it was indicated that he wanted to discuss the international situation.

telling him the German position. To this request Von Bernstorff readily acceded, in order to indicate to the world that Germany is ready to make a public acknowledgment of its concession to the United States.

Letter of Von Bernstorff.

This is the letter containing that acknowledgment:

My Dear Mr. Secretary: With reference to our conversation of this morning, I beg to inform you that my instructions concerning our answer to your last Lusitania note contain the following passage:

"Although I know that you do not wish to discuss the subject, I assure you that the Arabic incident has been definitely and satisfactorily settled. I desire to inform you of the above because this policy of my government was decided on before the Arabic incident occurred."

I have no objection to your making any use you may please of the above information.

"I remain, my dear Mr. Lansing, very sincerely yours,

J. BERNSTORFF.

The action of the German government in thus taking this principle for which the United States has been contending is regarded generally as a great diplomatic victory for the United States. It will go far toward restoring the United States and President Wilson to their position of a year ago as a possible peacemaker.

One of the first results expected from the removal of the danger of a break with Germany will be the renewal of efforts to obtain from Great Britain a large measure of respect for the rights of American trade. In official quarters particular emphasis is laid on the fact that the president's hands are now free and that he can proceed to demand observance of the law from Great Britain.

Wide Political Effects. The political importance attached to today's development by members of the administration can hardly be overestimated, for that Germany's action vindicated President Wilson's course in dealing with Germany and confounded his critics of both the Bryan and Roosevelt schools.

It is pointed out that had Mr. Bryan's conciliatory methods been followed Germany would have had just what it wanted from this government and never would have made any modification of its submarine program, while Col. Roosevelt, it is declared, has been urging a course that would have involved the country in another war.

Another effect thought likely is a crowning achievement by those opposing, for political or other reasons, large increases in national defense. It is believed that the adjustment of the issue with Germany will be cited by the small army and navy adherents as proof that the United States can maintain its rights without the use of military forces and that there is no warrant or occasion for plunging into elaborate preparations for a war.

Dispute of Long Standing. The submarine dispute between the United States and Germany has been pending since Feb. 6 last, when Ambassador Gerard forwarded to the state department a proclamation issued by the German admiral calling for the effect after Feb. 18 to certain zones in the British Isles which could be considered as "a zone in which the German submarines would attack enemy merchantmen."

On Feb. 10, the United States informed Germany that it would hold that country to "strict accountability" for any loss of American lives which might result from carrying out of the German admiral's decree. This country stated positively that the decree violated the recognized rules of international warfare, and that it would insist upon the observance of those rules. Germany replied that notwithstanding the objections of the United States, the proclamation would remain in force.

Tonight on Aug. 19 the Arabic was sunk and two Americans were added to the toll of the German submeridians.

COL. ROOSEVELT APPROVES NOTE, BUT USES "IFS"

Says German Sea Stand Is O.K. If Carried Out; Merits No Gratitude.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 1.—(Special)—Col. Theodore Roosevelt issued the following statement tonight on Count von Bernstorff's note:

"On its face it appears to be most gratifying that the sets of the Germans bear it out and if suitable amends are made for the lives lost, we shall be satisfied. As far as the Guiflight and Flahm and similar cases, and if there is no protest, expressed or implied, as to action on our part such as was requested by Germany before, as regards England and France, the result will be in every way satisfactory."

"I wish to call attention, however, to one thing: This is in no sense a concession by Germany, as it has been styled in some papers. It is an announcement that she intends to stop the policy of assassination."

"To stop such a policy establishes no claim to gratitude and makes it granted that, of course, there will be the most ample amends, so far as the property, but for the 120 lives of American men, women, and children who have been assassinated during the four months and over that the policy has been carried out."

VIEW OF THE PRESS.

LONDON.

LONDON, Sept. 2, 3 a.m.—The London morning newspapers, while recognizing the fact that Wilson has secured an important concession from Germany with regard to Germany's submarine war, express the belief that the president will not be content with it, but from the point of view that Count von Bernstorff's note to Secretary of State Lansing indicates that Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German imperial chancellor, has a free hand.

The petition is brief, covering less than one typewritten page. In it Thaw alleges that his wife was guilty of misconduct with Francis at St. West. Thirty-first street, New York, in December, 1909, and January, 1910, and at various other places and times. Thaw also declares she deserted him in July, 1909.

Francis Former Newspaper Man, New York, Sept. 1.—John Francis expressed surprise when informed here yesterday that he had been named in Harry Thaw's suit for divorce.

Francis, at the time of the shooting of Stanford White, was a reporter on a New York newspaper.

Finance Committee of Duma Offers Bill Extending Rights—New Foreign Loans Is Planned.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 1.—The finance committee of the duma presented a bill today extending the rights of the state bank to issue paper money. The committee discussed the entire problem of meeting war expenses, stating that the sums needed were so large that all possible sources of revenue must be used—taxation, internal credit operations, an issue of paper money, and foreign loans.

"The government must prepare the ground for another important loan in foreign markets to pay for material purchased abroad," the report said. "In view of the agreement with our allies there is no doubt of our success. In the whole financial history of Russia there never has been a moment's delay in paying ing creditors."

NEW YORK HERALD—Verily, in the words of Chief Justice White of the United States Supreme court, "it is the greatest victory for American diplomacy in a generation." The ultimate results, however, will be determined by Germany's submarine policy will be sufficient.

"It is a clever concession," says the Daily Graphic. "If President Wilson is really in earnest, however, he cannot be satisfied with such a partial concession."

NEW YORK CITY.

NEW YORK WORLD—President Wilson's patient but undying devotion to vital principles of law and humanity has brought peace with honor out of the German crisis. The German pledge embodies the most essential needs of naval warfare for which the United States government has contended since the immediate government issued its war zone decree in February.

"During the month of August the number of prisoners taken by German troops has been taken to 100,000.

"About 90,000 prisoners, including 15 generals and more than 1,000 other officers, and 1,200 cannons and 150 machine guns, have been captured at Novo Georgievsk, the port of Vladivostok, and 100,000 more are still missing."

The counting up of the cannons and machine guns taken at Novo Georgievsk has not yet been finished, however, while the count of machine guns taken at Kovno has not yet begun. The figures quoted as totals therefore will be considerably increased.

"The stock of ammunition, provisions, and stores in the two fortresses will be entirely exhausted."

"The number of prisoners taken by German and Austro-Hungarian troops since May 2, when the spring campaign in Galicia began, has therefore increased to considerably more than 1,000,000."

"SHADY SIDE" OF NEUTRALITY IS PORTRAYED

Bennett Tells of Scandinavians' Eagerness to Profit by Selling Contraband.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.
(War Correspondent of The Chicago Tribune.)
COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 30.—In the great port cities of the Scandinavian peninsula and of Denmark you behold the shady side of neutrality. Everybody solemnly talks cant about "indignities to our flag and menace to our shipping," and everybody continues blithely to make money by selling contraband. From Trondhjem to Copenhagen the traffic thrives in the face of enormous risks to life and property. Though the inevitable losses are made much of in public, they are endured in private with an equanimity that is more than resignation.

For these losses, in the final adjustment of masters, are born by the war nations. Vessel owners and shippers pay heavy rates of insurance, but their charges are covered by the extraordinary advance in rates which they have imposed upon the consumer. The insurance companies in their turn stand up under their losses because they make owners pay in proportion to the risk.

If a vessel has a safe voyage and delivers its contraband, the profits for vessel and cargo owners are well beyond the dreams of avarice. If vessel and cargo go to the bottom of the North sea the insurance companies pay, but the insurance companies have taken full account of the chance.

Would Pay Excessive Prices.

And if the warring nations—England on the one hand and Germany on the other—receive the material consigned to them, they are glad to pay five times what the value of that material was a year ago.

A shipping agent who returned to Bergen from Newcastle a few days ago said: "They told me they could take all I could possibly send."

Particular designation of who "they" are was not required by his hearers.

"But," he added, turning to a vessel owner, "your rates are terrific!"

"Yes," said the owner, "but you know what it costs us in three times. You also understand better than most people the risks of the traffic."

The truth is that both men are entirely satisfied with the present abnormal conditions, but the protest had to be made as a matter of business form.

Large as are the profits from commerce with the allies, shipping persons—who are willing to look a little further ahead than the instant trouble and the immediate guinea are beginning to be appalled at their own thoughts on what the result of the whole would do to the German submarine campaign.

"It begins to be felt," said one, "that if it continues many more months it can have but one result—and that result will be starvation prices. Already prices for certain goods have reached prices never heard of before."

Waste Only Incident.

Incidents like this happen, and it is indicative of the blunted state of the public mind that the horrid waste involved was regarded as only an incident:

A submarine met the Norwegian vessel Vega, bound from Bergen to Newcastle, and ordered it to stop. The commander of the submarine came aboard the Vega and looked it over with the result that there went west of the North sea.

One hundred and sixty cases of salmon. Four thousand cases of sardines. Eight hundred cases of butter.

The crew worked from 11 o'clock in the morning until 8 throwing the provisions overboard.

Within a few hours of this incident the Venus, bound from England to Norway, was stopped by a submarine and forced to stop. Its passenger list included sixty-four Russians who had been living in Canada and were returning to Russia to join the army.

"Are you going to make prisoners?" asked the captain of the Venus.

"No," said the German officer. "We will meet them in Russia soon enough. We will not bother them now." And he laughed. As a result of his decision, the Venus, instead of being sent to Germany with its Russians, went on its way to Bergen.

Precisely the same treatment has been accorded to a number of French and English passengers, faring in Norwegian boats across the North Sea.

Tell Troubles to Captains.

For some reason everybody seems to regard the captains of merchant vessels as being so thoroughly neutral that it is safe to confide everything to them. The consequence is that these good natured, laconic men are the recipients of long accounts of the anxieties, hopes, fears, and troubles of many men and women of many nations.

In the Scandinavian and Danish ports, therefore, a good many interesting information on the state of affairs in Russia and England can be picked up. Some of this information can be believed, but it is founded only on panic or on bravado.

There is a constant stream of these passengers. Some are Frenchmen who have been living in Russia and have been sent for return to France to join the army.

The other day a German presented himself at the offices of a shipping company in Bergen at an hour when the Russian interpreter was not on duty. A question was made to him about his questions in French, but he could not understand. He was then addressed in German, whereupon he gave signs of comprehension, but seemed reluctant to answer. Finally he asked, "But is it permitted to speak German here?" "Certainly," said an official of the company. "Why not? This is Norway."

The Russian had, however, seen so much of the terrorism attending the suppression of the German language in Russia that he was at first afraid to speak the language even in a neutral country.

Fears English Blockade.

It begins to come out, and to be something more frankly discussed, why Norway is so English-friendly. It seems that the kingdom is prompted to this English ardor not because it so loves England but because it lives in a deep dread of invasion by an English blockade of its coasts in the event of complications. The newspapers are timid and do not discuss the situation boldly. But the people will grant you that in the foregoing lines is the truth of it.

JAP ACTIVITIES ON MEXICO COAST STIR DIPLOMATS

Work to Save Crippled Warship Seen as Violation of Laws of Neutrality.

BY FLOYD P. GIBBONS.
San Diego, Cal., Sept. 1.—(Special)—

One night last winter, when the German commerce destroyer Emden was leaving a wake of wreckage throughout the South Pacific, a battleship in gray war paint and with lights out steamed full speed ahead into Turbulent bay, on the west coast of Lower California.

It was the Japanese battleship Asama,

one of the most powerful fighting units of the Mikado's Asiatic fleet. The ship ran aground on an uncharted rock in the harbor entrance. The battleship was imprisoned by the sharp rocks which prevented it from breaking. The smooth water of the harbor prevented it from breaking up.

For at least seven months the warship remained in this crippled condition, in the neutral Mexican port which is called

Port San Bartolome.

Floated and Taken Out to Sea.

Last week, Monday, Aug. 22, the officers and crew of the Asama, numbering almost

1,000 men, completed the work of floating

the crippled ship and temporarily repairing it for sea. On that day the ship sailed away from the port under its own power, having been supplied to limp along the north Pacific coast, bound for dry dock in Vancouver, B. C.

TEACHER LEAGUE VOTED AN OUTLAW BY SCHOOL BOARD

Desperate Filibuster Fails to Stop Passing of Rule by Eleven to Nine.

Now as the board took today is just the stimulus the teachers need to bring them to the front. Say it was so bad it was good.

John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, asserted in round terms that the board was coerced by "crooked big business."

Mrs. Ida L. M. Furman, president of the Teachers' Federation; Miss Haley, Mr. Fitzpatrick, Mr. Nockels, and Victor Olander, secretary of the State Federation of Labor, held a long conference behind closed doors, outlining a campaign to burn up the "lunkhead" members of the board and to override their action.

In addition to an attempt to arouse public opinion and to systematically popularize labor against the anti-federation, plans resort to the courts. L. T. Greenacre, attorney for the organization, may go into court today and ask for an injunction restraining the board from putting the rule into effect.

Another plan under consideration is to have some teacher refuse to withdraw from the federation and make her dismissal a test case in the courts. In any event it is the assumption of the pro-federalists that the enforcement of the rule can be suspended for months.

"Plot" Inquiry Urged.

Another angle of the campaign is Miss Haley's accusation of "graft" against members of the Baldwin senate investigating committee, whose inquiry resulted in the Senate's adoption of the Loeb resolution. She has secured an appointment with Assistant State's Attorney Johnston today, when she will lay before him what she says is evidence that the members, and especially Alver Stein, attorney for the committee, were paid from mysterious sources identical to the federation.

Mrs. Young's refusal to say whether she will withdraw from the N. E. A. in view of its determination to support the Loeb resolution, was regarded as significant. In many quarters the anti-federation movement has been viewed as an indirect attack on the superintendent.

Vote on Rule.

The roll call on the resolution duplicated the poll of the members related in yesterday's Tribune, with the exception of Robert J. Hoselton, who was absent attending a funeral in Dundee. The vote was as follows:

YEAS.

Rothmann, Clemensen, Mrs. Neth-

Mrs. Von-

Warning.

Mr. Loeb got the jump on his opponents at the outset by moving the amendment of the rules for the immediate consideration of the report of the rules committee, which recommended the adoption of the anti-federation resolution. This move apparently was a surprise for the minority and seemed to dislodge their plan.

Loeb's Machine Wins.

For nearly an hour Mr. Sonstebry fought on technical grounds to ward off action on the resolution, but seemingly nothing could stop the steady advance of Mr. Loeb's well oiled machine. The majority and the minority were unable to say that the merits of the proposal had already been thoroughly aired.

The pro-federalists denounced the supporters of the resolution in sweeping terms. Mr. Sonstebry charged it was an importation of the methods of "dark-skinned Russ" and Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton asserted it "gave the schools a black eye."

The alleged minority was "jamming through" an important measure, and there were intimations that pressure had been used to "lump up" the board against labor unions. "Irregular" and "unprecedented" were some of the words used.

Subdued Hisses Heard.

The audience gave audible expression of its hostility to the anti-federalists by a series of scornful murmurings and subdued hisses during the early maneuvering.

The demonstration came when Trustee Rothmann asserted he had prior rights on the floor, while Mrs. Britton and Mr. Sonstebry were seeking recognition from the chair.

"We've got eleven votes," exclaimed Mr. Loeb, "and I'm ready to move to clear out the hall."

"O, if you've got the votes already lined up," retorted Mr. Sonstebry, "why, go ahead."

"Keep cool," interposed President Collins. "Everything will be all right."

After that there was no disturbance from the spectators.

Loeb Pushes Motion.

Mr. Loeb's initial motion to suspend the rules was voted in rapid fire order, although Mr. Sonstebry interposed objection. The motion was seconded by Mr. Rothmann.

"I ask that the resolution be deferred two weeks," said Trustee Sonstebry. "That is provided by the rules of the house for all committee reports."

"Second the motion," said Mrs. Brit-

"Trustee Loeb reads Roberts' rules of order to show that his motion was not debatable and could not be amended or altered in any manner."

"Mrs. Gallagher wasn't present at the meeting of the rules committee," continued Mr. Sonstebry. "She wants time to consider this proposition. So do I and the other board members. It was only today I received a copy of the re-

"How do you rule, Mr. President?" exclaimed Mr. Loeb. "There is a motion before the house."

"Wait a Minute."

"Go ahead with the roll call," instructed President Collins.

"Wait a minute," interposed Mr. Sonstebry. "I'd like to know the reason for this extraordinary motion."

"My reason is to take this matter up

Rules Outlaw Teacher Union.

See Pg. 4. Membership in organizations affecting discipline and efficiency prohibited.

1. Membership by teachers in labor unions or in organizations of teachers affiliated with a trade union or a federation or association of trade unions (as well as teachers' organizations which have officers, business agents, etc., of such organizations) and members of the teaching force) is inimical to proper discipline, prejudicial to the efficiency of the teaching force, and detrimental to the welfare of the public school system; therefore, such membership, affiliation or representation is hereby prohibited.

2. All members of the education department who are now members of any organization or association, shall withdraw from it. Their membership therein and shall within three (3) months from the date of the adoption of this rule furnish satisfactory evidence that such membership has been discontinued.

3. No person shall hereafter be employed in any capacity in the education department until such person shall state in writing that he or she is not a member and will not while employed in the education department become a member of any such prohibited organization.

4. No member of the education department shall hereafter be eligible for promotion, advancement in salary, or transfer from school to school until such person shall have stated in writing that he or she is not a member, and will not while a member of such education department become a member, of any such prohibited organization.

5. Any member of the education department who shall be found guilty of a violation of any provision of this rule shall be liable to fine, suspension, or dismissal from the service, at the discretion of the board.

"at once," was Mr. Loeb's reply.

"Well, is there any particular urgency?" persisted Mr. Sonstebry. "As far as my experience goes, every time we suspended the rules, it was an attempt to put something over. I see no reason for haste."

President Collins again directed Secretary Larson to proceed with the roll call.

"Just a moment," again interposed the leader of the pro-federalists. "Why not take up the roll call till the minutes of the last meeting have been read? Why not take up things in their regular order?"

"This is an important matter, and we wish to have it disposed of," replied Mr. Loeb, who was somewhat exasperated.

"Mr. President, how do you rule?"

"Out of Order!"

"I rise to a question of personal privilege," said Mr. Greenacre. "It was understood that the rules committee would do nothing during the vacation. They held a meeting without consulting me. Aren't they out of order, Mr. President?"

"That is my understanding," replied Mr. Collins.

The roll was called and resulted in eleven affirmative votes against nine negative and the motion was declared adopted.

Sharp Verbal Exchange.

But this was only the signal for a new outburst of the filibuster. There was a sharp exchange of words between Trustee Loeb and Rothmann on one side and Trustees Sonstebry and Britton on the other, as to who was entitled to the floor.

Amid the multiplicity of motions and requests for rulings on technical points, President Collins was compelled to refer frequently to Attorney Shannon for advice.

Maze of Motions.

Here is the summary of the motions:

Loeb—To pass the anti-federation resolutions.

Sonstebry—To defer action for two weeks.

Loeb—To lay the Sonstebry motion on the table.

Sonstebry—To defer action till the next meeting.

President Collins finally permitted the Sonstebry motion to pass, and it lost, nine to eleven. Mrs. Collins then ruled the roll would have to be called on the Loeb motion.

Trustee Schiske insisted on following the strict letter of this ruling.

"It doesn't seem right that eleven votes can take away from nine members the right to dispose of this matter," protested Mrs. MacMahon and President Collins recited from his previous position.

Sonstebry Starts Again.

"Chicago Teachers' Federation," said Mr. Sonstebry, "is in control of the school system of Chicago, and with which I have been closely affiliated for years. According to the report of the rules committee, I was much surprised at the recommendations of the rules committee, and could hardly believe it was possible."

"While I may have violently disagreed with the federation a year and a half ago, I have never known it to act in a way detrimental to the schools and the school children, while I have known of numberless acts for the benefit of our educational system."

For Punishing Individuals.

"The acts which have brought about these rules are the acts of individuals. They are not acts of the organization. These individuals I believe should be punished. I haven't reached the point where I hesitate to discharge a teacher whose acts are detrimental to schools or reflect on the school system."

"Suppose a teacher is brought before the trial committee. What chance has she, in many cases, without an organization behind her? Do you remember the case of the west side teacher?"

"Chance had she? Not a chance worth without the support of the federation. Yet did the federation interfere?"

Backs Up Federation.

"The crime charged against the federation is affiliation with the union. Is this a crime? I don't think so. The union is proper, gives the associations the strength of organized labor. I remember when you have called in the representatives of the teachers' federation. Why? Because you wanted the support of the labor organizations."

"You're passing rules by a bare majority. This is so important a matter, and we have to act in a way detrimental to the schools and the school children, while I have known of numberless acts for the benefit of our educational system."

Big Boys' Clothes.

"Young fellows just ready for first long trousers want these Prep suits; two pairs of trousers with each suit. Belt back sacks, single or double breasted; extreme values at $12.50."

Young men's College and High School clothes.

For school wear here are smart Norfolks with two pairs of knickers to each suit and extra belt. The new fall fabrics are very attractive and are shown in a great variety at $5.95.

"Russia?" Talk Heard.

Mr. Pietrowski said it was simply a question of vengeance and talked about darkest Russia. Mrs. Gallagher elaborated this idea.

"Let one voice be heard against this despicable measure. It is an atrocious act. It might be expected in Russia or Turkey."

"How do you rule, Mr. President?" exclaimed Mr. Loeb. "There is a motion before the house."

"Wait a minute."

"Go ahead with the roll call," instructed President Collins.

"Wait a minute," interposed Mr. Sonstebry.

MISS HALEY ASKS HOYNE TO DIG UP SENATORS' PLOT'

Says Stein Is Doing Out Mysterious Money to Pay Inquiry Bills.

Criminal action against certain persons who have been fighting the Chicago Teachers' Federation, was moved yesterday by Miss Margaret Haley, who went before Assistant State's Attorney Frank John Stein Jr. yesterday with information which she said showed that there was a conspiracy against the organization.

Mr. Stein, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor, and Victor Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, were also present.

Both the N. E. A. and the state teachers' association have paid secretaries.

"The action is directed to 'detestable organizations,'" said Mr. Rothmann.

"Even by the widest stretch of the imagination the N. E. A. and the state association could not be called 'detestable.'

Bothmann Experts "Evidence."

"I rise to a question of personal privilege," said Mr. Greenacre. "It was the understanding that the rules committee would do nothing during the vacation. They held a meeting without consulting me. Aren't they out of order?"

MORE PUBLICITY IN LAWSMAKING URGED BY ROOT

Speaker at Constitutional Convention of New York Pleads for Reforms.

(By A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.) Albany, N. Y., Sept. 1.—[Special.]—Once again Elihu Root went to the front in the New York constitutional convention for the "New York idea" in politics, reform, and he won his right hands down.

Today Root espoused the practical principle of full publicity for all legislative debates. He successfully contended that the state legislature must be dignified by the state; that it must be respected and honored, and must be placed above suspicion. He held that verbatim reports of legislative proceedings should be given to the state, even in the face of heavy expense.

Mr. Root's issue was substantially made in Springfield at the beginning of the last Illinois legislative session. All precedent was violated, following the agitation led by the Legislative Voters' League, the City club, and the Progressive minority in the house, which resulted in a daily stenographic report of what was actually said on the floor of the senate and house.

Publicity Law Is Proposed.

New York, by the vote of the convention today, now proposes to establish in fundamental law the requirement that the proceedings be recorded and printed and distributed throughout the state.

Earlier in the day the convention raised the salaries of state senators and assemblymen from $1,000 to $2,000 per each year, and voted that they should be paid their actual railroad fare to and from Albany once each week during the time the members are present. The stringent anti-pass and anti-frank requirements of the old constitutions, as affecting the legislatures, are retained.

"The effort of this convention in dealing with the conduct of our government," Mr. Root said in a speech which convention members consider as secondary in importance only to his Monday delivery, "has rightly been to bring about public rather than private action."

Public Law to Know of Expenditures.

"We have required that instead of the governor sitting down for thirty days after the adjournment of the legislature to discuss and act on the legislation which state in public before the action of the legislature precisely the considerations which hitherto he has acted upon in private, so that the resources and expenditures of this state shall be necessarily a matter of public discussion before the legislature acts."

"This measure is designed to make the reasons for action on the part of the legislature matters of public record. It is designed to enable the people of the state to know why the legislature passes bills and why it refuses to pass them."

Legislature Should Be Dignified.

We ought to dignify the legislature of this state," Mr. Root continued with emphatic vigor. "We ought to proceed upon the theory that arguments made on the floor of the bill should be made known to the people of the state. We cannot expect the legislature to do it, and I think we ought to do it for them."

Mr. Root's amendment to the pending legislative article, which was being handled by Mr. William Barnes Jr., chairman of the committee on legislative affairs, was adopted unanimously.

The prevailing tone of sentiment in the convention tended toward increasing the respect and faith of the people in the legislature.

DETECTIVES SEEK KAYSER SLAYER IN HIDING HERE

Police Certain Murderers of German Pastor Will Be Found Soon.

Chicago detectives working on the murder of the Rev. E. A. H. Kaysers of Gary last night expected to make arrests some time today. It is the theory of the detectives of Gary and Chicago that the murderers of Kaysers are in Chicago.

They are known, and the police believe it will only be a question of time until the assassins are caught. The police of Gary have run down every possible lead and Chief Heilts announced he was waiting for arrests in other cities.

Congressman Frank Murphy of Gary questioned several persons in secret. He announced he had learned nothing that would lead to the solution of the mystery.

Attorneys Paul J. Tennenbach and Miss Lillian Freese, the last ones to see Kaysers before he was murdered a week ago, were questioned by the coroner.

The Rev. George Bendick branded the story that he was threatened in a letter as false. The letter was in regard to parish business, he said.

KENOSHA ON WATCH.

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 1.—[Special.] Considerable activity was shown in official circles here today to provide protection for Kenosha plants said to have been considered plants named in plots of German spies in this country.

It was admitted at the office of Sheriff Stahl that the warnings sent to Kenosha were of the most hazy sort, but that they were serious and had been placed about the plant of the L. DuPont & Company, the Pneumatic Powder company at Pleasant Prairie and about several of the larger manufacturing plants in Kenosha.

Kenosha has supplied a lot of munitions of war to the allies in past months, but it is said the contracts are now pretty well cleaned up, and that just at the present time none of the plants are engaged in the manufacture of anything for export trade.

CITY FOREMAN SHOOTS MAN IN PIPE EXTENSION GANG.

Trouble Long Breeding, It Is Said, and Laborer Alleged to Have Attacked Him with Shovel.

One man was shot and wounded and is still in hospital at the Kenosha Park police station yesterday as a result of an outbreak at Balmoral and Leclaire avenues. Both men were members of a gang of city water pipe extension experts repairing in the streets.

The man shot, Alexander Arns, 2644 West Erie street, a laborer, is in St. Anne's hospital with a bullet wound in his thigh. His alleged assailant is Peter T. McKenna, 1529 Millard avenue, the foreman. For some time, according to the police, a feeling has existed between McKenna and the laborers. Several days ago they are said to have attempted to attack him.

"Next autumn, after the season is over, I'll slip you the ring," runs the story. "I'll save my money this summer and we'll be all fixed for one honey-moon."

Mrs. Schrayer, "she who was Miss Anna Bradley, won a breach of promise suit and a judgment for $9,750 against Siegfried Schrayer, was discharged when brought to trial before Municipal Judge Williams in the night court last night on a charge of disorderly conduct. E. T. Cleissod of Morgan Park, who gave the name of Arthur Williams when arrested, was also discharged. It was a case of mistaken identity, both testified in court. They had each mistaken the other for some one they knew. Upon being released Mrs. Schrayer asserted that there was something behind the arrest."

Eviction of the special war tax on wines and cordials has resulted in nearly 100 raids on Chicago liquor establishments recently, and as many more are promised unless the retail liquor dealers voluntarily meet the requirements of the revenue department.

One of the latest "visits," as Revenue Agent Dan Chapin calls them, was made at Daniel Lewellen's saloon, 50 South Dearborn street, where sixty bottles of wine and cordials were seized. Another downtown raid of "major importance" was made recently, but Mr. Chapin would not reveal the place.

Mr. Root's amendment to the pending legislative article, which was being handled by Mr. William Barnes Jr., chairman of the committee on legislative affairs, was adopted unanimously.

The prevailing tone of sentiment in the convention tended toward increasing the respect and faith of the people in the legislature.

THE GERMAN PURPOSE.

It has been taken for granted ever since the beginning of the drive against Russia that the next attack in force by the German war machine would be directed against the western front. This expectation has been used as an excuse for the comparative nonactivity of the French and the British along their lines. It has been suggested that the allies prefer to meet the German rush in their present strength and not in the weakened condition which would surely follow an advance in France and Belgium.

Another suggested objective for the next German attack has been the Balkan states, the purpose being, of course, the relief of Constantinople. If the German and Turkish forces were connected, the strategists say, the capture of the Dardanelles would be well nigh impossible. The massing of German and Austrian troops on the frontier of Roumania and Serbia has lent color to this theory.

Another objective might, however, be less difficult of attainment and just as effective for the Austro-German interests. That objective is Odessa, the chief Russian seaport.

It is through Odessa that the allies hope to relieve Russia after the capture of the Dardanelles. Occupation of Odessa, or even the cutting of the railways between Odessa and the interior, would effectively nullify the capture of Constantinople.

Odessa is practically the only seaport on the Black sea which the Russians would find immediately available for importation. More than one-ninth of all the Russian trade is carried on normally through this city. It has five or six harbors. Its railroad connections are far superior to any other Russian port in this region.

For a drive in the direction of Odessa the Germans would be compelled to lay a foundation of diplomacy. Roumanian neutrality assured, the work would be easier in all probability than attempting to force a way through the Balkan states, a move which would probably create a new Balkan league against them. For this neutrality Roumania might receive portion of this Russian district along the Black sea. With Poland and Odessa in its hands, Germany at the conclusion of peace might have on its eastern borders two buffer nations.

Relations between the imperial government and the Turks are of relatively little importance to the future of Germany. Its interest in the Turks has been anti-Russian rather than pro-Turkish. Once assured that north Prussia is safe from invasion, it is more than conceivable that the next German offensive will be toward the chief Russian seaport.

PAN-AMERICANISM.

Peculiar, unbelievable, and astonishing as it may be, nevertheless a woman's college has been one of the first to see what must be behind a permanent Monroe doctrine and a pan-Americanism in trade relations. The class of 1890 of Smith college has presented $7,500, the income of which is to be devoted to maintaining a Latin-American scholarship, with the expression that it "desires to do its part in helping all the countries of North, Central, and South America to a better understanding."

THE PENROSE THEORY.
United States Senator Boies Penrose has enlightened this country in many ways during his political career. So successful has been his effort that he is now considered an authority on bad government. His most recent contribution to our education is contained in his report on comment on Ellwood Root's speech about bosses.

The short ballot is only another name for concentrating enormous power in the hands of one individual. Experience demonstrates that human nature is frail enough to render it probable that in nearly every case this power will be abused." This theory of bad government—it certainly cannot be called a theory of good government—is due to Senator Penrose and his ilk. It is one of the strange phenomena of American democracy. To put it baldly, his notion is that the people elect officials to serve them, but because all of these officials are dishonest they must be hedged in with such restraints that competent service is impossible.

Somehow or other it strikes us as extremely funny that Senator Penrose should advocate such a theory as this. We cannot help thinking that what he fears most is that officials with power would turn honest.

ARBITRATION.

It is easy enough to be pessimistic about arbitration for the settlement of our industrial disputes. It seems to prolong and postpone rather than settle, if the most conspicuous proceedings between the western railroads and the engineers and firemen is an example. The Newlands law represents our best efforts in the way of preventive legislation, too.

In the first place, the public was notified for several months in advance by both sides there was to be a strike on 98,000 miles of western railroads. Both bluffed their hands up until the last minute, when President Wilson was able to get arbitration only by pointing to the tense economic situation following the declarations of war in Europe. After six months of preparation and another six of the presentation of evidence, a decision, rather a series of protests, was filed. The men gained something, but they were dissatisfied because it was not enough, and loudly dissatisfied. They were also dissatisfied with one of the neutral judges and the railroads with the other one. The railroads were also dissatisfied because the men got too much. The public was bewildered. Congress is yet to get a petition asking for an inquiry. The various leaders retired to their camps, with promises of what is to happen next spring when the present agreement is ended. Furthermore, the board has just ended another long session in which 200 disputed points in the single award were called up for settlement. The entire question will be up again next year, with both sides even more determined than ever.

Unquestionably voluntary arbitration is the best way we have found yet. But it is no royal road.

WILSON WINS.

President Wilson's bold stroke in diplomacy has found its certain mark. He has stood unwaveringly for the best that is recognized in American ideals, and, for reasons which might be considered and weighed without important result, has succeeded in imposing the will of the American people upon the German people.

Germany, whatever its ulterior reasons may be, has consented to conform its sea operations to regulations upon which the American government has insisted.

So long as the matter was open for argument Mrs. Taft insisted upon arguing it. We thus appeared as critics of President Wilson's policy. We knew that the American people not only were unpersuaded but did not want war with Germany. We knew that they did not want and were not prepared for war at all. We knew that a method of compromise was opened by the German overtures, and thought it the best policy to accept the arrangement which would protect the American flag and American citizens under it and thus keep us out of the European disasters.

President Wilson has had the fortune of making his uncompromising policy stand. It is an extraordinary triumph not only for the American nation but for him personally. In the face of results it is of no consequence to say that if the party in Germany headed by Admiral von Tirpitz had prevailed we should have had war instead of an amicable arrangement facing us.

Results count, and in this case the president has all the results on his side. It is useless for his critics to point to the consequences on the other side of the probabilities. They did not happen. Whatever wisdom there was in opposition to him is discounted by the result. It may have been wisdom, but it is proved fruitless.

The president's attitude undoubtedly conformed to the average American's idea of national importance, and the result coincides with that estimate.

We do not know what considerations moved Germany. They may have been considerations of expediency or humanity. They may represent the triumph of diplomatic Germany over militant Germany. Whatever they represent in Germany, they stand in the United States for the clear-cut triumph of American principles against great odds.

The critics of Mr. Wilson's scheme merely bow to and acclaim the fact that he has arrived at the desired and without use of the methods which they thought necessary. He has avoided the ultimate, although he used the ultimatum.

The result was the test. He met that test. The method is no longer of any importance.

WAR AND ANIMALS.

A large and unimportant group of our people are particularly sensitive to the welfare and happiness of our domestic animals, particularly horses. Visions of the long lines of wounded men make an impression upon these people, but their preoccupation seems to be with the sufferings of the beasts of burden both in peace and war.

The English military authorities have undertaken the problem of the horse scientifically, chiefly through the efforts of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Although most of the handling is now done by motor, there are large numbers of horses in the armies. A corps of almost 10,000 men is taking care of wounded horses in three military hospitals. According to James Muirhead, writing in the Times, some weeks ago more than $1,000 horses had been treated, of which about 47,000 have been returned to duty, 22,000 were still under treatment, and about 9,000 had died or been killed.

Perhaps the horses have the better time of it after all. With them there will be no blind and crippled after the war. There will be no defective born of shaken nerves and deformed bodies. If we allow ourselves to be too rational we may almost suspect that humans run everything with perfect competency except their own affairs.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The agricultural department at Washington is engaged in trying to define a weed. The old definition, "a plant out of place," is too sentimental and does not fit the case. Rye growing in a wheat field is out of place, but it is not a weed. Blue grass growing in an alfalfa field is a plant, though it is out of place. In view of these exceptions a definition has been invented as follows: "A weed is a wild plant that has the habit of intruding where it is not wanted." This is entirely too psychological and so a specialist in the department, after great effort, has reached this conclusion:

The old definition that a weed is a plant out of place, while a very catchy one, does not clearly represent usage. The hundreds of wild plants which inhabit a field which is a plant, though it is out of place. "Our Jimmie has gone for to live in a tent;
They have grafted him into the army.
He finally puckered up courage and went,
When they grafted him into the army."

WILSON CHIEFS START HIS MOVE FOR NEW TERM

Ignore Bryan Four Year Principle and Base Claims on Diplomatic Victories.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT] Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—[Special.] The campaign of President Wilson for renomination may now properly be said to be under way. Tangible evidence that Mr. Wilson's confidential political advisers have decided the time has come for them to make the preliminary move, has appeared here.

This evidence is sufficiently definite to show that these advisers have no uncertainty as to his attitude toward the second term principle, and his purposes in regard to the presidential nomination to be voted at the next Democratic national convention.

The first movement in this direction was made several weeks ago when friends of the president brought about the election of National Committeeman Fred B. Lynch of Minnesota to the chairmanship of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee.

Slated to succeed McCombs.

It was well understood Mr. Lynch would be a prominent figure in the direction of the Wilson candidacy should the president decide to make the fight. Mr. Lynch is slated to succeed William F. McCombs as chairman of the national committee.

Yesterday, at the behest of Senator Ollie James, the Kentucky Democratic state convention adopted the following resolution:

"We believe that his [the president's] mastery of the situation, [referring to the European war], requires his nomination in 1916, and heartily endorse him as the party's efficient and trusted leader in the coming national election, believing that patriots, without regard to the party, recognize Woodrow Wilson as the one man best suited to bear the burden and perform the herculean task now confronting the president of the United States."

Approved by OBJECTIONS.

Senator James stands high in the council of those most interested in the presidential election. It may be stated upon adequate authority that the president's confidential advisers knew of and approved of in advance Senator James' plan to bring about an endorsement of Mr. Wilson at the hands of the Kentucky convention.

A week ago the Democrats of the Tenth district of Wisconsin adopted a resolution, "with reference to the 1916 nomination," endorsing the Wilson administration. A copy of this resolution, forwarded to the White House by Andrew J. Sutherland, chairman of the Democratic district committee, drew a warm note of appreciation from Secretary Tumulty.

Wilson "Genuinely Pleased."

The president's secretary wrote that the president was "genuinely grateful and heartily appreciative of this genuine endorsement." He said the president had directed him to ask Mr. Sutherland if he "would be good enough to convey the president's expression of his appreciation to all parties concerned." The letter was warmly phrased and left no doubt as to the feeling with which Mr. Wilson's advisers received endorsement from Secretary Tumulty.

DING FRUIT UNDER THE LAW.

Haven, Mich., Aug. 31.—[Editor of Tribune.]—The food law, as at interpreted, is practically a dead letter. It should be expunged from the books. I quote you from a letter writer, dated Aug. 25: "I think no cause for serious worry over for fear of violating the law. It will weigh a certain number of separately and then use as your place upon each basket the name of the minimum or even an average, I think you will have no in the matter. After having up a certain number of baskets and assured yourself that the would not exceed a certain upon each basket. Certainly would expect you to write upon each the weight after having weighed each."

It is not expected that the exact to be marked on the package of what effect is the law? are not sold in South Water the pound, but by the basket. One buys a basket of grapes and the same price whether the basket seven and one-half pounds or one-quarter pounds, as it may be to circumstances. Fresh fruit and vegetables, of course, and if the buyer wants over a grape basket to get for the 13 he pays for the basket that is most the South Water street have his hand full. The only handle this matter is to fix upon a package and sell the fruit by the and let it go at that, or the law active and useless. If there is much guesswork in the matter, practical benefit is the law?"

William Lorimer is moving back into the Sixth Congressional district on the west side—his residence during his rise from a street car conductor to United States senator. The family has been living in the fashionable Lincoln Park apartments on the north side since the old Douglas boulevard home was sold a year ago. They will go back to the home district in a modest third story flat at 2235 Washington boulevard.

The group yesterday was that Lorimer's friends had raised a fund of some $50,000 with which to pay off his debts and start him in politics again as a candidate for congress in the Sixth district.

Associate Tells Plans.

A man who has been on the inside with Lorimer in all of his financial and political undertakings in the last five years yesterday told a Tribune reporter the following story:

"Lorimer is not going to run for any office for some time. He has at least four years of trouble ahead of him, even if he is acquitted on the charge of having aided in the wrecking of the LaSalle Street Trust and Savings bank."

"To pay up the losses to the depositors of the bank according to the latest formal statement with a minimum of $100,000. If Lorimer has the opportunity to work steadily and business conditions improve we estimate that he could wipe out the total indebtedness of his bank, so far as the depositors at least are concerned, in four years. That will be a heavy burden for him. He is such a notion known to his friends. He is not thinking of running for office yet awhile."

Mr. Darrow was reported yesterday to be in Louisiana. Friends say he and his wife negotiated a considerable loan with the Lorimer bank and secured it with a mortgage on some 40,000 acres of land in that state.

WATCH DOCTOR AFTER MYSTERY IN FIRE CASES

Riverside Authorities Question Physician Regarding Flames in His Residence.

Federal agents are closely watching developments in the state fire marshal's inquiry into a fire of supposed incendiary origin which destroyed the home of Dr. John Petersen in Riverside on the night of Aug. 24. Their interest is not concerned so much with the fire itself as with the activities of Dr. Petersen.

He has told conflicting stories regarding the fire and has thrown a cloak of mystery around his movements before coming to the United States. He became angry when First Deputy State Fire Marshal A. A. Bach asked him yesterday if he was a German spy.

Hates Spies. "I hate spies," he retorted hotly.

Dr. Petersen says he was born in Germany and was a captain in the German army, yet he claims he came to the United States from France on a Swedish passenger ship. He does not know the name of the vessel on which he came over nor the date of its arrival in New York.

"I left Germany four days before the war began," he said, "and went to France, where I traveled under an assumed name. Then I came to the United States and sent for my wife. I am unable to tell what caused the explosion."

STATE GRAIN INSPECTORS PROTEST AGAINST DISCHARGE

Public Utilities Commission Postpones Action on Pleas Until Tuesday—Object to Tests.

A score of men who until recently were employed by the state of Illinois to get up at 5 o'clock in the morning and crawl on hands and knees in narrow spaces under the roofs of freight cars to take samples of grain, have before the state grain inspectors commission with a protest against being fired because they were unable to make satisfactory grades in the examinations before the state civil service commission.

They were represented by Attorney V. S. Lumley of Woodstock, who pleaded that the men were deprived of their jobs illegally for the reason that a New York decision holds that a suspension or discharge and that the men could not be discharged legally before being tried and convicted of charges of inefficiency.

It was further maintained that the men could not legally be compelled to take examinations anyway for the reason that they were established employees and not applicants for jobs.

Claims Big Loss.

The physician asserted he had about $1,000 worth of fine linens which he brought from Germany and $1,000 worth of paintings. Deputy Marshal William R. Price and J. W. Burr found a few dollars short of $15,000 upon the body, but came upon no trace of oil paintings.

Attorney W. S. Case attempted to drive the deputies out of the ruins. They filed a complaint against him with Chief of Police Charles Lange.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 1.—[Special.]—George Fitch, who died at Berkeley, Calif., last month, will take place at Galva, the boyhood home of his family, on Tuesday Sept. 7 at the Congregational church.

Why the MONON ROUTE

Carries More Passengers Between Chicago and Indianapolis Than All the Other Lines Combined

It is the shortest line, makes the fastest time, and is the only line operating morning, noon, afternoon and midnight trains each way.

It is the only line with a schedule that permits a traveler to go from one city to the other and return the same day—with ample time to transact business at destination.

Its trains between Chicago and Indianapolis average 98% on time.

It operates "The Hoosier," a train exclusively for Chicago-Indianapolis travel. No other line has a train like it.

It operates observation-library cars on all its day trains. No other line provides this luxury.

It operates all-steel, electric lighted sleeping cars on its night trains.

Its dining car service is the best.

It is the only line that arrives at and departs from Dearborn Station, Chicago, in the heart of the city.

When you go to Indianapolis, do as most people—go on the Monon. It costs no more than to travel on other lines and you are protected by automatic electric block signals all the way.

DOPE PHYSICIAN JAILED FOR HIS 'HUMAN' METHOD

Government Charges Dr. A. L. Blunt with Illegal Sale of Habit Forming Drugs.

Dr. Arthur L. Blunt, self-styled "savior of dope fiends," spent last night in jail. The pleadings of the physician, who is accused under the Harrison anti-narcotic law, and the arguments of Forrest Garfield Smith, his attorney, availed nothing when he was arraigned yesterday afternoon before United States Commissioner Lewis F. Mason.

"You have no bondsman acceptable to the government here now," Mr. Mason told the attorney and his client. "If I had faith in Dr. Blunt I would stay here and try to get him an opportunity to give him a bond. I have little faith in his sincerity, however, and I'm going to catch the train for my home in Waukegan."

Arrested in Office.

Blunt was arrested by Dorothy United States Marshal John Anderson at his office at 5 West Harrison street.

He took a seat in the marshal's office and used the telephone in a futile attempt to summon a bondsman to save him from a night in jail. His hands trembled as he placed the receiver to his ear, above which his white hair appeared thin and unkempt.

"I have saved 600 men from death and worse than death since the first day of March," the physician said. "It is only persecution."

One Bondsman Rejected.

A man who gave his name as Alex Zuckerman, a real estate dealer approached and offered to sign Blunt's $5,000 bond. He was not acceptable to the government, however, when it became known that the $100,000 worth of property which he said he owned was not in his name.

Blunt has done nothing wrong thus far," Attorney Smith said. "The government has a spite, but it has convicted him of nothing so far. He has only done his part in saving the lives of those poor wretches who come to him for help."

Margaret Lauder, to whom "dope" was sold according to her testimony, appeared before Mr. Mason yesterday, charged with having in her possession morphine in violation of the law.

Does Your Hot Water Faucet Take Orders?

Will It Always Deliver—in the Tub—One Warm, Invigorating, Refreshing Bath While You Shed Your Shirt?

A live, active Hot Water Faucet is worth more than a Jap valet—a dead one is an irritating nuisance.

To go without a daily bath for lack of hot water is to deprive yourself of nature's greatest tonic and stimulant. That's why some 100,000 Chicago bath-tub faucets are connected with

Made Any Progress Yet on the Bud Fisher Conundrum—

What Shall He Do with the Money?

What Would You Do with the Money?

"For drawing this comic for The Chicago Daily News and the associated newspapers in the Syndicate his yearly salary is now $78,000.00, approximately." This is what the Syndicate Manager wrote the Publisher of The Daily News about Bud Fisher and his "Mutt and Jeff" comic.

If you could draw "Mutt and Jeff" and get $78,000.00 for doing it, what would you do with the money?

That's the question Bud Fisher has got to wrestle with, for he's getting the money—in weekly installments. Now what shall he do with it? What would you do with it if in his place? Is it not up to somebody to help Bud Fisher out? Why not you? The Daily News invites the co-operation of its readers in this humane endeavor to help Mr. Fisher carry his load. To this end it offers a prize of One Hundred Dollars for the best answer to the question "What shall Bud Fisher do with his yearly salary of $78,000.00?"

It is recognized that there will be a great variety of judgment on this important question, and that the advice to Mr. Fisher will reflect the personal point of view of each writer.

One will answer under a very definite sense of Mr. Fisher's duty in the premises—$78,000.00 is a lot of money.

Another, taking the lighter view of life, will rack his brains to think how Mr. Fisher can "get the most out of it" for Bud, and the answer will naturally follow the individual notion of the writer as to what's most worth while.

Still another may take the point of view that all this "plunder" naturally takes on the character of its source—that it's a joke, and that it would therefore be a sin to administer it seriously.

From all of which it follows that it may be no light task to fairly adjudge the relative values of so many answers from so many radically different points of view. It is obvious, therefore, that the condition must be laid down at the outset of this contest in altruism that The Daily News must be the sole and absolute judge of the relative values of all answers, and that its decision and award of the prize must be unquestioned and final.

And now let the battle of wits go on. The Daily News has every confidence that out of the abundant and varied treasures of brilliant thought, fine conscience and happy conceit of its many readers there will flow a wealth of suggestion and advice that will warm the cockles of Bud Fisher's heart and lighten the burden of his financial load.

Hints are now open—and for one week, closing September 7. Address all answers—"For Bud Fisher's Relief." The Daily News, Chicago.

And may the best answer win.

POLICE CHANGES PLANNED TO STOP REVIVAL OF VICE

Chief Healey Orders Captains to Explain Why Resorts Are Open Again.

BLUECOATS ARE WINKING

Chief of Police Healey yesterday ordered all his captains to appear before him at the city hall this afternoon.

The question he will put to them is, in effect, "What is the matter with the police department's enforcement of the statutes and ordinances concerning the social evils?"

The chief is convinced that something is wrong, but he doesn't know exactly what it is. He has been told that the lid, without being taken off, has been tilted a little here and there, that conditions are permitted to exist that could not continue if the police were doing their duty. He wants an explanation for the situation.

Sure of Improvement.

"I shall ask them for their views and their suggestions of remedies for the situation," he said, "and it is possible—yes, probable—that I shall have some suggestions to make. I am sure conditions can be improved and that they will be improved."

The sections of the city to which the chief's attention has been called specifically are the north side near Grand avenue, the west side near Madison and Paulina streets, and the south side around Thirty-first and Thirty-ninth streets.

While reports concerning the conduct of women are the principal cause of his action, the chief has been amazed also by stories of all night saloons which in some instances have no licenses. They masquerade as soft drink parlors, but no prostitutes not only buy like other saloons, but continue their非法 traffic all night long when saloonkeepers paying $100 license fees are compelled to close.

Policeman Winks at Violation.

Two of these places are said to be in the vicinity of Grand Avenue and one of them on North Clark street. One of the saloons is within plain sight of a policeman who passed the wide open double doors. In this same neighborhood women have been soliciting along La Salle avenue, Wells street, and Clark street.

They also have been active in some cafes as well as on the streets of the west and south sides.

There was no indication of anger in the chief's words as he discussed the situation.

"If something is wrong I want that something remedied," he said. "That's all."

Some Changes in System.

He was asked if a return to the original system of handling moral inspection reports as it was instituted with the creation of the police organization would be considered. He said he had the power to do that for now, "snaking" that was possible under the system created by Chief Gleason in the latter part of his term. He said he had considered that subject and might make some changes in the method of handling these reports.

The reorganization ordinance provided that the reports of investigators be forwarded by the second deputy superintendent to the chief. This practice was begun when John McWeeny was chief, but did not do much good. No good results were accomplished. The same places were doing business a month later when the next report was made. Most of the reports were branded by the captains as unfounded.

Gleason Sees Difficulties.

When Gleason became chief he found the same difficulty and reported it to Mayor Harrison in the presence of Second Deputy Finkhauser. The second deputy insisted he could prove his reports correct, and Harrison then instituted the system of having citizens' clothes accompany the investigators. The investigators then led the raids made by the policemen working out of the second deputy's office.

A stop was put to this system after the shooting of Detective Stanley Birns by a member of the second district and after the police chief was shifted so that when the investigators discovered a disorderly house they reported it to the captain in command of the district and cooperated with him in having it raided.

Healey Changes Plan.

This method was accomplishing good results when the administration changed. Chief Healey ordered that the provisions of the reorganization ordinance be carried out—but that the reports from the morals inspector, after approval by the departmental inspector and the second deputy, be forwarded to him for distribution to the police districts mentioned.

Recently several days elapsed before the chief's order findings reached the affected captains. In the meantime the offenders may have received a secret warning to his law. In any event, intermittent street soliciting marked by changes in the field of operation has caused without serious molestation.

The question of a modification of this system is one question the chief will discuss with the captains.

SANITARY WORKER ENDS LIFE

Charles Carloss Shoots Himself Five Minutes After Eating His Dinner.

Seite III, Sept. 1.—[Special.]—Corporal William Wunderlich tonight began an investigation into the death of Charles Carloss, Lockport resident and employee of the sanitary district, who shot and killed himself in a barn in the rear of his home this afternoon five minutes after he ate his dinner. Carloss was 71 years old and in good health.

He was born in 1875 and died in 1946.

His wife, Mrs. Anna Carloss, 69, died in 1928.

He was a member of the church.

FLICKERINGS from FILM LAND

by KITTY KELLY

Billie, "Flo" and
"Zieggy" in Town

HIST—sh-sh-sh! Yesterday we had a lady smuggler with us, and she slipped past the persons in authority as dexterously as any movie actress. Training to the guns. Now that the customs officials were on her trail—she was just so plain clever about it that nobody knew she had a trail to be on, nor did any know there was a tail in the case.

And not that she was smuggling gold or silver or precious stones, though the smuggle is undoubtedly without price, and undoubtedly difficult, for it was aimed.

Billie Burke stood demurely on the La Salle Street sidewalk yesterday morning, while her masculine satellites scuttled around her. She had on a sarge dress, tan above and blue below and puffed. She had on a hat, too, but the gleams of her hair and the glow of her eyes completely barricaded one's observation of it. It must have been a nice one, though, for the tout ensemble was very good to look at.

Over her arm she carried a big fur-trimmed coat, gray in general inclination. It was a perfectly calm innocent looking coat. She smiled sweetly, spoke amiably, then seemed obsessed by a gentle abreaction.

"I think I will go down," she remarked, and moved off toward the stairway. Unobtrusive people, planted all along her way, made apparently, blossomed forth and proceeded to take her coat. But she smilingly nodded refusal and they melted into the background from whence they came.

Then she looked around stily and white-poled off stage: "I've got a dog in here, and I must get him out. He won't stand there very long."

The lady spoke, truly, for by careful looking the gray silk began to frame itself something after the shape of a canine foot mounted, ready for action.

His name is Zieggy, which Miss Burke admitted to be almost a family label; and when his white scotches had finally been shaken out of the enshrouding gray and an unobtrusive person had sprung from the background and snatched the ribbon, Miss Burke lost her abstraction.

Making Pillow Tops.

NICE way for J. F. B. to make pillow tops out of the little cigarette rugs is to sew up a pillow cover of black satin and baste the little rug on it in any design desired. Featherstitch them on to the cover of each rug with colored embroidery silk, using a different colored silk for each rug. I used the black for the first two and the red for the last two. Another nice way to use the larger rugs is to cover the pillow with plain colored saten, then make another cover of the rug by crocheting them together with coronation braid or any crocheted insertion in colors.

Pillow of Satin Pieces.

Reading in your corner of one who wished to make a pillow top of satin flags and little rugs, I will try to explain the way I did mine. I purchased black satin for the background of the rugs and blue for the flags. I then laid a rug across each corner of the black about three inches from the corner. I put on two or three rows this way, putting the second row over the first, and so on until the space between the first ones. I then took the remaining ones and put them in the center. After sewing them on firmly I featherstitch them in yellow. The satin flags I fastened together with baby blue ribbon and fastened them to the blue. I have a roll of music which I will gladly give to some one who wants it.

How to Sweep.

I wonder if you mind my saying few persons know how to sweep. The way I was, and unfortunately the usual way, is for the sweater to stand behind the broom, sending into the air with each sweep of the broom volumes of dust with its accompanying millions of bacteria. The correct way to use a broom is for the sweater to stand before or at the side of the broom and never to raise the broom from the floor in such a way as to throw the dust up into the air. Windows and doors should be thrown open to get a current of air and thus carry off whatever dust is unavoidable raised. We all know that germs are to be found in far greater numbers in the dust than in clothing, furniture, carpets, rugs, etc. Dry sweeping or allowing the dust to fill the air, should be avoided. A damp cloth should be used and the places to be swept dampened as well as the broom.

Bad Teeth Mean Bad Health

SAYS
Antoinette Donnelly

(Copyright: 1915. By Antoinette Donnelly.)

For there is a cavity in your teeth, no matter how small, visit a dentist at once and have it filled. There is nothing that shows such inexplicable lack of health as a cavity in the teeth. With due care and attention, lack of brushing are thoroughly disgusting and unpardonable. Yet there are women who are careless in this regard. You cannot have good digestion or health unless your teeth are in perfect condition, for the first stage of digestion takes place in the mouth. With imperfect or decayed teeth proper mastication is impossible.

Go to your dentist twice a year, so that small cavities shall be discovered in an early stage, the tartar removed, and the teeth kept in their best condition.

While it is generally known that decay, if neglected, will destroy a tooth, it is not so well known that many times the result of deterioration may be the loss of a tooth. Those who are most inclined to brush their teeth night and morning never think of touching their gums with the brush. You should always brush the upper teeth right from the top of the gums downward and the lower teeth from the bottom of the gums upward. If the gums are allowed to get unhealthy both teeth and digestion will suffer.

Healthy gums are hard and firm. Unhealthy gums are soft and spongy and bleed easily. If you find your gums bleed easily when cleaning the teeth you may be sure they are not in good condition. Try massaging a little salt into them with the tips of your fingers once or twice a week. This acts as a tonic and corrects a tendency to sponginess if taken in time.

If you have any beauty problem upon which you wish advice or need the help of an expert, write to Antoinette Donnelly, "Chicago Tribune." In her carrying out of her work, Miss Donnelly will be in touch with you in connection with Dr. W. E. Evans, health editor of "The Tribune." All matters relating to personal hygiene and physical culture will be pleased to answer you personally if you will inclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

SKIN BATHING

MARGARET D.: Comb your hair back loosely, holding it in place by side combs. Braid it or wear it in a curl down your back with a bow at your neck. If you moisten your hair with a good curling fluid before putting it up in kid curlers it will stay in curl longer. I shall be glad to send you my formula for hair-curling fluid if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

Real Love Stories

Found Happiness with Second.

SHE was a gentle mouse-like little woman of 45 when I first met her and as far removed, in appearance, from romance as one could imagine. Yet her story held me when my grandmother told it.

This little woman, as a young girl of 17, had come to the south from New England, the 90 year old son of the owner of the next plantation. A year later with a month old baby in her arms she kissed her husband goodby as he went to join the troops of the civil war. She never heard from him again as he was killed in battle the next morning. For five years she lived alone with her baby in her ruined plantation home. When the war was over there were many suitors for her hand, but she still lived in her dreamy world with the memory of her young husband.

One day a stranger came to her door. He was a man of 40, commanding in appearance and personality. He introduced himself as Mr. —, a resident of the next town. He told her that he had often seen her coming in to market with her young son and that he had been so attracted to her that he had come to ask her if he might have her hand. He was a widower with three children, a large farm and plenty of means.

He asked her to consider his offer, gave her personal and financial references and with the greatest courtesy said goodby. After he had gone she thought her situation over carefully. The times were hard, she had no means to properly educate her boy, he was getting to the age when he needed a father and this man, whom she had never seen before, impressed her.

When the stranger called for his answer three days later it was "yes." In another week she had gone to take charge of his home, raise his children and be a good wife to him. He was wonderfully good to her and she had thirty-five years of happy married life with him before he died. Her own little boy was given all the qualities and advantages that other children had and was a boon companion of his stepfather.

Some years after the death of her second husband the little woman still lived on and managed the big farm. She often said: "I can't remember what little John's father looked like. It seems like a dream, my year of marriage to him. I love him still with all my girlhood, but I love Big Jim with all the love of my womanhood and when I get to heaven I don't know which I want to see first."

This Is a Chummy Crowd.

"Dear Miss Blake: Last summer I started chumming with a girl that I worked with in a mill. We have been chumming ever since. I would do anything in the world for her and we are always together. She is at my house or I am at hers."

"She has two brothers, one 24 and one 19; also there is a young man rooming at their house. He and the younger brother are 'chums' the same as we girls are."

"My mother thinks I should not go to her home so much, as the young men will think I am coming to see them. I think too much of myself to give up her at that dangerous. Advise me."

There is no reason why you should give up the friendship of your chum merely because she has brothers. Go to see her as often as you like, but don't pay too much attention to the boys when you are there, and nobody will have any reason to suspect you of being interested in them.

THE TRIBUNE COOK BOOK BY JANE EDDINGTON

Vegetarian Diet Again.

Many letters, with many questions, have come after a recent article on vegetarianism, that it seems best to take up the subject again.

A diet which includes butter, milk, cheese, fish, and sometimes white meat, is not strictly a vegetarian diet, though so called. When these things are added to a diet made up of a great variety of vegetables, fruits, and nuts, there is no chance of any eater failing to get all the needed food elements, and he stands a better chance of getting enough of the vitamins which are so important in the maintenance of health.

There is no one vegetarian cook book in which the latest and best facts have received consideration in the recipes. There is no cook book of any sort, for that matter, in which these things are taken account of, but there will be soon.

For instance, in almost every known cook book the directions for beans and other legumes are to soak them overnight and throw the water away. Thus the soluble minerals are thrown away, although the skins are left.

The skins, which are the indigestible part, can be soaked with water, covered and over the gentlest fire. Lima beans can be soaked in hot water one hour, this used as a part of the four times the amount of water used in the cooking, and cooked deliciously. Three hours of similar soaking is enough for almost any legume. The skins, which are the indigestible part, are related to the bark of trees and the number of waters will softly soften them.

There are good reasons for disapproving of protein, "cayenne," and other mixtures with atrocious names, put up by professional vegetarians. We can make delightful mixtures, but let them be fresh made. There is no one of the systems of vegetarianism that does not contain good, but some of them contain ideas that make them unattractive and reasonably so, as well as truly unscientific where they claim to be scientific.

The Gardener at Work

Answers to Queries.

ILLARD G.: Your oleander may take frost growth if pruned and repotted. Oleanders require very little care. Cuttings soon develop into thriving plants and may blossom early, as one did to my knowledge within a year after planting. Now and then one finds a rose tree or lilac or oleander or some plant that seems to stand still. Business wisdom suggests that it is better to throw it away and to get something new. House oleanders may be the victim of the cottony scale or slugs. Wash trunk, branches, and leaves with kerosene emulsion.

R. H.: Vinca plants and geraniums may be carried over winter in the cellar or store room. They should have water and not freeze.

POYES: The campanula (Crista) grows four feet in height, producing clusters of rich scarlet flowers. It does best on a south wall and is a feature for subtropical gardening.

Mrs. T.: The new candytuft giant hyacinth flowered as an improvement on the old sorts. The white is familiar, but the lilac, rose, pink, carmine, and crimson are as successful. A Hubbard Woods border is charming in black and white.

NEW YORK—California poppies in bright yellow and orange are most effective in borders. If the site is congenial they are likely to appear the next season and create pretty places in sunny grounds.
